Revolut – Most Common Questions

Why can't I use Revolut at UK online gambling sites?

The reason that UK online punters need to find an alternative to Revolut is due to changes in British legislation. After which, it was no longer legal for UK punters to use credit cards to fund online gambling accounts. As Revolut is a payment method that is often funded by using a credit card, many online gambling operators no longer accept it as a payment method. Betting.co.uk can help you find an alternative to Revolut, though. Our guide to the top Skrill betting sites might provide you with a fantastic option so that you can fund your account with ease.

Can you gamble with Revolut?

Due to a change in British legislation, it is no longer possible to use Revolut as a means to deposit money to a UK gambling site, meaning you're probably not going to find an online bookie with Revolut in the UK. All is not lost, however, as there are many alternative payment methods to Revolut that are quick and easy to set up and use.

This is in part due to the change in legislation that made it impossible for credit cards to be used for gambling in the UK. You can use alternative payment methods with bet365, and the good news is that all of them are quick and easy to set and use.

Can I withdraw my winnings to my new payment method when I have found a Revolut alternative? Most online gambling websites will allow you to withdraw any winnings that you may have been lucky enough to claim using the same method as you used to deposit funds in your account. If you use a debit card or Paypal betting sites, the process is usually very simple indeed, but ewallet customers are also often well catered for. You should always check at the site at which you have an account, and direct your inquiry to customer service if you have any kind of outstanding issue with the time taken to process payments or whether any charges are applied when you use certain methods.

Revolut Gambling – Fees at Former Betting Sites That Accept Revolut

Although you won't find any more betting sites that accept Revolut, you might still be interested in the respective fees. Recent changes to the Revolut fee structure means a refresher is in order. In terms of opening an account, you will not incur any fees. If you receive or send money within the UK, there are no additional fees.

However, if you use a card that has not been issued in the EEA (such as a US-based card), then a small fee applies. International payments will also incur a fee and is updated in real time. You'll be notified of the amount prior to confirming the transaction in question.

Lastly, you will also find fees relating to exchanges. If you use a currency exchange via the Revolut app, then the exchange rate will be determined by in-house market data. Exchanges that exceed £1,000 on a monthly basis will start to pay a fee of 0.5% on the amount exceeding £1,000. Standard users will also incur a fee of 2.5% for cryptocurrency exchanges.

Top Tips For Finding A Perfect Gambling Site

Now that you're aware betting sites that accept Revolut are not an option and found a suitable alternative, what should you be looking for when it comes to finding the right online gambling site for you? Our experts at Betting.co.uk have put together a list of seven things that you should always check before committing to opening an account at an online gambling site.

Look at the range of other options for entertainment

So you like sports betting, but occasionally you like to try out other online gambling sites in the UK too? Perhaps you're looking for the best UK poker site or seeking out a live casino blackjack game? No online punter can ever be easily fitted into a pigeon hole after all. This is why it is a good idea to look at all the gambling options that a site offers before you make a definite decision on which one to choose. A good site will be strong across all of the various activities, and provide you with plenty of varied options for your gambling entertainment.

Is there a live casino?

Live casino gaming is a relatively recent innovation that can be found at many online casinos these days. It combines the convenience of playing at home with all the excitement of playing in a real life casino. If your favoured online casino offers a live casino, make sure that the software is provided by one of the world's top developers, such as Evolution Gaming.

Can you watch sports on live streams?

If you like to indulge in a spot of live betting, then you should also check to see if any live streams of sporting events are available for you to watch at a sportsbook that you are considering using. Being able to view a live stream makes in-play betting a much more enjoyable activity, and also provides plenty of entertainment on its own terms, if you're the kind of person who enjoys watching sport. Any betting site that offers live streaming is definitely worth considering, in our view! Take a look at our best horse racing betting apps and best betting app for cricket guides to see which providers offer these sports on the go!
