Apple removes WhatsApp and Threads from its store in China by order of the government

Another day, another set of problems for the App Store of Apple. This time, the company has bowed to the orders of the Chinese state to remove WhatsApp and Threads, two of the latest applications from Meta still available in the country.

From our history:

Apple confirmed that it had removed the two applications, both property of Meta, also owner of Facebook, under the orders of the Administration of Cyberspace of China, which regulates and censors internet content in the country.

"The Administration of Cyberspace of China ordered the removal of these applications from the Apple store in China based on its security concerns", said Apple in a statement by email to Reuters. "We are obliged to comply with the laws of the countries where we operate, even when we do not agree".
