Now all the hole cards have been dealt, the dealer will immediately deal the first three community cards - the flop - before any further action takes place. Unlike in Texas Hold'em Poker, there is no pre-flop action in Casino Hold'em other than placing the ante.

Now you have your cards and the three community cards, you're given the option to play or fold. If you decide to play, you will have to place a bet. You should decide whether to bet or fold based on the strength of your hand, just as you do in Texas Hold'em.

If you decide to bet, the dealer will deal the fourth and fifth card (the turn and the river), and then turn over their card to decide who has won. There are no further rounds of betting.

Winning in Casino Hold'em

If you can make a stronger set of five cards using a combination of your hole cards and the community cards than the dealer can, then you've won. If the dealer fails to make a hand better than a pair of fours then they don't "qualify" and the player automatically wins that hand, regardless of what they're holding.
